JOYCE KILMER

POEMS, ESSAYS AND LETTERS

Edited and with a Memoir by Robert Cortes Holliday

Literary Executor of Joyce Kilmer

In these volumes is written, altogether, a bright chapter in the history of our time. They contain a representative collection of Kilmer's work in his varied fields. All the poems are given which it is deemed advisable to preserve; these include the five poems from France never before between book covers, and a group of little-known early poems. The intimate letters will, for fragrance and charm, bear comparison with some of the best we know—and admirably reveal the brave, humorous wisdom and deep spirituality of the man.

People have made very creditable reputations as humorists who never wrote anything like as humorous essays as those of Kilmer. And as a brilliant interpretative critic he brought a new note into American journalism.

Of the brief Life the New York Times says: "In this memoir, that should live as a fitting tribute, a piece of writing that is in itself masterly, Joyce Kilmer is life's comrade still."

Portraits and facsimile reproduction of last poem written in France.

GOVERNMENT AND BUSINESS— AUTOCRACY AND BOLSHEVISM

SAFE and sane democracy, safe and sane business, depend alike on recognition of common and mutual interests and obedience to natural or rational laws. When the "classes" and the "masses" (unfortunate terms!) clash, when capital and labor antagonize each other trouble is sure. One side starts to "rock the boat" and a stormy sea swamps all. When the notorious phrase "The public be damned" of a railroad magnate of the obsolete past is met by the words "The public is the carcass, we are the vultures," from a Brotherhood chief before a Congressional Committee not long since, one is as bad as the other. The public is not some other fellows but all of us, and we are all in the same boat. Autocracy, the despotism of the "classes," and Bolshevism, the despotism of the "masses," are extremes which alike defy democratic rights and natural laws.

Before and during the war our Government adventured an autocratic control of business and interference with natural law, from which reaction was bound to come with peace. Already it has set in. Justice Hughes has professed the inefficiency of Government methods and the President himself has confessed to sharing the public doubt as to the advisability of making the railroads a Government business instead of fostering private operation under Government regulation rather than restriction. The seizure of cables by the post-office department has provoked public condemnation of red tape autocracy and maladministration in the post-office service, as in the treatment of periodicals and reckless smashing in the parcels post; and the zoning system jammed thru by Chairman Kitchin is sure of repeal in the next if not in the present Congress. Most significant of all, the Federal Trade Commission has just reported to Congress in favor of price maintenance on identifiable commodities extending to their resale under reasonable regulation. In short, the pendulum swung too far and is swinging back. Interference with business is to be replaced with encouragement of business by reasonable regulations. The people have accepted restrictions under war conditions which they will not tolerate in peace times. We have learned a lot from the war in pulling all together and not apart which will serve us well in time of peace but also we are unlearning a lot.

On the other hand, business has to contend with a growing danger of disregard of mutual interests and defiance of natural laws from the other extreme. In dealing with workers and with wages, employers must recognize several facts. The public, all of us, are bound to assure to labor a reasonable day, sanitary conditions of work and life, a just wage and a higher standard of living, an increasing share of the product he helps to produce. To assure these, collective bargaining, trade agreements, arbitration have come to stay. But collective bargaining must recognize the rights of the public, the employer and the unrepresented minority of labor, and trade agreements must not be treated as "scraps of paper." When any body of workers ignores all but its own desires Bolshevism enters in to ruin all alike as Russia has been ruined.

Unfortunately, the Press Feeders' strike in New York, with which publishers are vitally concerned, is an illustration of bolshevism in industry which the War Labor Board has condoned instead of condemned. This Board has been so eager to avert strikes in munition factories that it has practically advised and required employers to grant any demands in any business. There is a water-tight agreement in New York between the "Closed Shop Division" of employing printers and fourteen unions in the printing trades so hard and fast that it might almost be considered as a conspiracy against the rest of the public. The employers surrendered shop control to the unions in large measure and in turn the unions agreed to discountenance strikes and to resort to arbitration in case of differences and to accept a stated scale of wages for a stated time. Wages have been rightly increased from time to time during the war thru wise mutual agreement, the press feeders from seventeen dollars gradually to twenty-four dollars. But on a Thursday the feeders walked out of one shop without notice. On Friday Franklin Union No. 23 voted a strike, and on Saturday noon a strike began. The War Labor Board urged return to work pending arbitration as the trade agreement required. The Union's committee urged the same course, but was outvoted, and Mr. George H. Berry, president of the International Union of the printing trades, in a remarkable letter, condemned the strike and threatened the dropping of the Franklin Union from the general body. For a week all periodical and book manufacture was suspended. The next Monday the War Labor Board met in New York, ex-President Taft and Frank J. Walsh presiding, and the men agreed to return pending a decision retroactive to the beginning of the strike. The Union had claimed thirty per week and then advanced its claim to thirty-six dollars, apparently for compromise purposes, and the Board awarded the thirty dollars, Mr. Walsh accompanying the decision with an ex parte and extraordinary letter. Naturally and rightly the other unions, including such skilled artisans as pressmen, compositors and linotypers, felt that they should have at least a like raise, and thirteen other cases were simultaneously submitted to the Board. The Board has five hundred cases before it, but an early decision is expected, logically extending the raise to the other unions, retroactively from October 21st. This throws upon employing printers an unexpected and indefinite burden which they cannot in many cases re-claim, but there has been no disposition to do otherwise than accept the decision of the Board. Skilled mechanics are certainly right in the claim that they should be not less liberally treated than unskilled helpers.

But this abnormal raise, at the end of the war, will have serious results in diminishing work. Printing offices whose margin of profit and reserve had already disappeared may be made bankrupt, some periodicals are likely to cease publication and others which cannot increase subscription or advertising rates must be reduced in size to meet increased cost. On our own publications, we are forced to give up some important features of costly typography and to reduce the number of pages for the new year, as subscription rates cannot wisely be advanced and advertising rates only moderately increased. Some printing enterprises had already been abandoned in view of high cost. All this will reduce the amount of work from which wages can be paid and must lessen the number of men required. Prices must decline before wages, but wage reduction from abnormal heights must follow price reduction. Mr. Gompers has asserted that labor will give up no gains made during the war. But even Mr. Gompers cannot avert the action of natural laws.

It is, in fact, doubtful whether labor, outside of government employment, has gained; on salaries the increase has probably not kept pace with increase of costs. War gains are illusory, except to profiteers. It is how much the day's work buys that counts.

Employers accept the view that the workers should have an increasing share of product and profit, but they cannot have all or more than there is to divide. That would be the grab game of Bolshevism, which ignores all interests except its own and all thought except for the present. As we pass from war into peace times, we must all work together to avert political, social and industrial upheaval such as has been brought upon Russia, and agree all together to consider the interests of all. It is to be hoped that the great body of wage earners represented in the unions will continue to condemn such rash action as the feeders' strike, as Mr. Berry condemned it, and that Bolshevism in industry, on which sabotage is sure to follow, will be checked at the start.

When business and industry are made free, destructive competition averted, trade agreements both made and kept, employers and employees brought to work together in common accord with fair division of responsibilities and returns, America should lead the world into a happier world order in which every man should be the better off because he seeks and expects justice amongst all co-workers.

A GOOD STEP AHEAD

THE book-trade can find greatest cause for rejoicing in the Federal Trade Commission's recommendations to Congress as printed in this issue. It is a real step forward toward a just solution of this puzzling problem, and the Commission's survey of the conditions that have led them to make this important request for legislation gives a very just view of the situation with consideration for both the producer's interest and the consumer's.

PRICE MAINTENANCE UP TO THE NEW CONGRESS

Federal Trade Commission Makes Important Recommendations

To the Congress of the United States:

The Federal Trade Commission, under paragraph (1), Section 6 of the Federal Trade Commission Act, addresses the Congress by way of a special report designed to direct attention to the subject of control of resale prices by the manufacturers of a class of articles in interstate commerce.

The question is, whether or not a manufacturer of standard articles, identified either by trade-mark or trade practice, should be permitted to fix by contract, express or implied, the price at which the purchaser can resell them.

The question has been continuously before the Commission since its creation. It has been the subject of study, investigation and hearing and constantly recurs, in various forms, in complaints filed with the Commission by business concerns.

The Supreme Court has made it clear that, in the present state of the law, the maintenance of a resale price by the producer, is a restraint of trade and is unlawful.

Such being the judgment of the Supreme Court, the Federal Trade Commission has enforced the law, even tho it may have appeared to operate inequitably in some cases. In its enforcement of this rule, the Commission has been mindful that the cutting of a recognized resale price on well established and identified articles has been, at times, indulged in for unfair trade purposes. When so unfairly used, such price cutting is attempted to be cloaked as lawful competition and justified by the Supreme Court decisions.

Thus, both price maintenance, and price cutting under certain conditions, are found to be unfair and business men are perplexed. It is with the desire that this perplexity may be terminated that the Commission addresses the Congress.

It is urged, and, the Commission believes, with reason, that it would be unwise to vest with the manufacturers of articles the right, without check or review, both to fix and to compel the maintenance of resale prices. It is true that business practice inclines producers to fix the lowest possible retail price in order to secure the greatest possible sale of their product, but in the complex commercial organism functioning between the production of an article and its final sale, for actual consumption, both the wholesale and retail merchant are entitled to just compensation for useful service performed.

It is similarly urged, that manufacturers should be protected in their good will created by years of fair dealing and of sustained quality of merchandise.

The consuming public does not enjoy benefits by unfair price cutting to compensate it for the injuries following demoralization caused by price cutting. This for the reason that, in the long run, unrestrained price cutting tends to impair, if not to destroy, the production and distribution of articles desirable to the public.

There must be a common ground wherein the rights of producer, purveyor and consumer may each be fully secured and equity done to all. The search for such a ground has been a task of the Commission and results in the following conclusions.

(1) That producers of identified goods should be protected in their intangible property right or good-will.

(2) That the unlimited power both to fix and to enforce and maintain a resale price may not be made lawful with safety.

(3) That unrestrained price cutting is not in the public interest.

Bills now pending before the Congress may well be made to meet the difficulties of the situation if amended to provide for a review of the terms of resale contracts and a revision of resale prices, by a disinterested agency.

Therefore, it is recommended that it be provided by law that if the manufacturer of an article produced and sold under competitive conditions, desires to fix and maintain resale prices, he shall file with an agency designated by the Congress, a description of such article, the contract of sale and the price schedule which he proposes to maintain, and that the agency designated by the Congress be charged with the duty, either upon its own initiative or upon complaint of any dealer or consumer or other party in interest, to review the terms of such contract and to revise such prices, and that any data and information needful for a determination be made available to such agency.

Such legislation would seem to be in accord with the spirit of the times in that it is designed, by removing this perplexity, to promote the efficiency of manufacturing and commercial institutions and so to serve the interest of the consuming public.

Respectfully submitted,

William B. Colver, Commissioner.

John Franklin Fort, Commissioner.

Victor Murdock, Commissioner.

TARKINGTON'S WORKS

The widely diversified public which follows the books of Booth Tarkington with such eager interest, whether they be humorous accounts of Penrod's adventures or serious sociological novels, or such blend of humor, pathos, sociology and realism as his new novel, "The Magnificent Ambersons," will unite in interest over the announcement of the publication of a collected and autographed edition of Mr. Tarkington's books issued by Gabriel Wells, the dealer in fine books, by arrangement with Doubleday, Page & Company, Mr. Tarkington's publishers. The edition is limited to 565 sets of twelve volumes each. Each set is numbered and registered, and the first volume of each set is autographed personally by the author. A few of the sets have been put aside for special binding.

BOOK TRADE REPORT OF WAR WORK

The contributions to the United War Work Campaign made by Publishers and Booksellers of Greater Manhattan reached a total of $50,026.83 from one hundred and ten contributors. In view of the stress of the times and especially of the Liberty Bond "Drive" preceding that for this fund, the result seems creditable; for it is obviously a vastly more difficult matter to secure outright gifts than to induce investments in bonds. As it was, our industry stood second in a group of eight, in which the paper industry held the first place.

I thank heartily all those who contributed through our Committee so generously, and I thank especially the members of the Committee, for no chairman could have had more earnest and efficient fellow-workers. The credit for the results attained is due to David S. Beasley, of The University Society; Charles E. Butler, of Brentano's; Frank C. Dodd, of Dodd, Mead & Co.; Martin M. Foss, of McGraw, Hill Book Company; J. B. Latour, of Harper & Brothers; John Macrae, of E. P. Dutton & Co.; F. G. Melcher, of The Publishers' Weekly; George A. Plimpton, of Ginn & Company; Arthur H. Scribner, of Charles Scribner's Sons; Mrs. R. E. Sherwood, of The Sherwood Company.

Signed,

FREDERICK A. STOKES, Chairman.

EXPRESS RATES RAISED

General increases in express rates were announced by Director General McAdoo of the Railroad Administration to take effect Jan. 1. East of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers the new rates on merchandise will be 16 or 17 cents a hundred pounds more than at present. For the remainder of the country the rate will be increased by from 10 to 12 cents a hundred pounds.

"It is expected," said a Railroad Administration announcement, "that the increased express rates will have the effect of transferring considerable of the short haul business to motor trucks and back to the freight service, where it really should be handled, also the transferring of some of the smaller packages to parcel post."

The reason for making the rate increase greater in Eastern territory, it is stated, is that hauls there are shorter and city delivery and terminal service, necessarily expensive, proportionately higher.

LESSON IX.—ENGLISH AND AMERICAN ESSAYS.

"The essay must always be a somewhat repellent form of literature unless it be handled with the lightest and deftest touch. It is too reminiscent of the school themes of our boyhood—to put a heading and then to show what you can get under it."—SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE in "Through the Magic Door."

THE essay is our most dilettante form of literature. That is to say that it is always unprofessional in manner and aims merely to delight. As the etymology of the word implies, it is something essayed or tried, something tentative, with no attempt at being the last word on the subject. The essay deals most naturally with stray and accidental themes, with vagrant and random thoughts. Its most striking characteristic is inconsequence. The best essayists have been those writers who knew how to trifle and play with their own thoughts, who took the reader into their confidence and were intimately personal.

The essay as a literary form began with Montaigne in France in 1580. Florio's English translation of Montaigne was known to Shakespeare. Bacon modeled his essays on the form supplied by Montaigne, and Bacon and Montaigne, our earliest essayists, still remain our greatest.

The essay as we have it to-day exists still in its original form and also in other forms more pretentious. Later essays have become purposeful. We might divide the essay into two main types at present, the informal and the formal, the dilettante and the professional. The formal essay may be critical, historical, philosophical, or sociological. The critical essay is such an important and extensive branch that it is difficult to separate it from the parent stem. A few of the greatest critical essayists have been included here, but on the whole the list is limited to the lighter, less systematic essayists.

Lamb "had mastered the personal style so completely that his essays seem simply the overflow of talk. They are so desultory; they move from one subject to another so waywardly—such an essay as a Chapter on Ears, for instance, passing with the easy inconsequence of conversation from anatomy thru organ music to beer—when they quote, as they do constantly, it is incorrectly, as in the random reminiscences of talk. . . . For months he polished and re-wrote these magazine articles till in the finished work of art he mimicked inconsequence so perfectly that his friends might have been deceived."—G. H. Mair in "English Literature—Modern." Holt's Home University Library.)

SMITH, ALEXANDER. 1830-1867.

Dreamthorp; a Book of Essays written in the Country.

Dutton; New University Library, 75c.

Oxford; $1.00, 45c.

Mosher; $3.00.

Last Leaves. Oxford; 45c. (with Dreamthorp).

Summer in Skye. Dutton; 75c.

("Dreamthorp" was first published in 1863. The genius of its author was long neglected, but to-day a place is claimed for him next to the greatest masters of the English essay. His "Dreamthorp" in its setting and in its mood is much like "The Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft" by Gissing, and fully as beautiful. It is a spiritual autobiography in which the author says that he throws the reins on the neck of his whim and plays with his own thoughts. Among the 12 essays are such titles as: "On the Writing of Essays," ("one of the best essays on the art ever written."—Walker), "Of Death and the Fear of Dying," "On the Importance of a Man to Himself," "Christmas," "Books and Gardens," and "On Vagabonds" (reprinted in Mabie's "Essays Every Child Should Know.")

JEFFERIES, RICHARD. 1848-1887.

The Story of My Heart.

Brentano; Wayside series, $1.00.

Dutton; Illustrated, $3.00.

Mosher; Old World series, $1.25.

Longmans; $1.25.

(This book, like "Dreamthorp," is in the nature of a spiritual autobiography. It has also been described as a prose poem, full of a rapturous love of nature and a strong tendency to mysticism. Jefferies was above all a lover of nature, but he chronicles not so much the facts of nature as his own emotions in contemplating those facts. He has written other well-known books, such as, "The Open Air" (Scribner; Dutton), "The Life of the Fields" (Scribner), "Field and Hedgerow" (Longmans).)

STEVENSON, ROBERT LOUIS. 1850-1894.

Virginibus Puerisque. Scribner; $1.35. Mosher; 40c.

Essays. Selected and edited by William Lyon Phelps. Scribner; 75c.

Aes Triplex and Other Essays. Mosher; 40c.

(Professor Hugh Walker says that since Lamb there has been no more accomplished essayist than Stevenson. Many of the essays are based upon events in the writer's life. But the event is rarely sufficient in itself. "Story-teller as he was, he was still more a moralist. Henley's 'something of the Shorter Catechist' is an understatement. There was not merely something but a great deal of the Shorter Catechist in Stevenson.")

The first title (translated "Concerning Maidens and Youths," is an essay on love, marriage, and the conduct of life. "Aes Triplex" is the Latin for "Triple Bronze," a phrase which figuratively stands for courage and stoutheartedness. These essays embody Stevenson's philosophy of life in its quintessence.)

GISSING, GEORGE. 1857-1903.

The Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft. Dutton; $2.00, 75c. Boni, 70c.

Books and the Quiet Life. Mosher; $1.25 (Selections.)

(The original title of this book as it appeared serially in the Fortnightly was: "An Author at Grass." Gissing in a letter to his friend Edward Clodd said: "It is written for people like you, whom the general uproar of things does not deafen to still small voices.")

A critic has described "Henry Ryecroft" as "that gentle masterpiece of softened autobiography whose wistful air of wide human compassion will keep it long alive. Written in the calm evening of his short life (Gissing died at 46), after the terrible years of starving in London slums were past, 'Ryecroft' is a calm revelry in peace and plenty, with inevitable regrets for the years that the locust hath eaten.")

THOMPSON, FRANCIS. 1859-1907.

Prose Writings. Scribner; $2.25.

Shelley. Scribner; $1.35.

(Thompson is better known as a poet, as the author of "The Hound of Heaven" than as a prose writer. Professor Hugh Walker says: "If Gissing is the most charming, his fellow-collegian Thompson is the most eloquent of recent essayists. Thompson has suffered from injudicious and excessive praise, but he is great enough to survive that.")

BENSON, ARTHUR CHRISTOPHER. 1862—

Escape and Other Essays. Century; $1.50.

From a College Window. Putnam; $1.50.

Upton Letters. Putnam; $1.50.

Father Payne. Putnam; $1.50.

(Benson's prolificness has hurt his fame. 19 volumes of essays (Putnam), four of verse (Lane), and two of biography (Longmans), three of essays (Dutton), is enough evidence to condemn him as a facile writer. Five of Benson's books have been published anonymously, perhaps to disguise from the public the oversupply. The latest volume, "Father Payne," was acknowledged in its second edition. It is a pity that the Benson vogue is not at its height, for "Father Payne" is by far the best volume of essays Benson has written, and had it come sooner it would not have waned in popularity as the earlier essays have waned. "Father Payne" is a book of ideas and of thoughts about ideas. There is a slight thread of continuity running thru all the essays, and the subjects are always abstract, never concrete.)

LUCAS, EDWARD VERRILL. 1868—

Cloud and Silver. Doran; $1.35.

Fireside and Sunshine. Dutton; $1.60.

(Several volumes of Lucas's essays have gone out of print: "Character and Comedy," "One Day and Another," "Old Lamps for New," even "A Little of Everything" (all Macmillan) which was an anthology of selections from all his works. His Wanderer series of travel essays in London, Paris, and Holland still keep in demand. Lucas is a disciple of Charles Lamb, a disciple worthy of his master. As the biographer of Lamb, he seems to have captured the Elian manner of writing. His choice of out-of-the-way subjects and the great originality of his themes are most like Lamb's.)

BELLOC, HILAIRE. 1870—

This and That, and the Other. Dodd; $1.50.

On Everything. Dutton; $1.50.

On Something. Dutton; $1.50.

On Anything. Dutton; $1.50.

On Nothing and Kindred Subjects. $1.50.

At the Sign of the Lion. Mosher; $1.00.

(Belloc was borne in France but was naturalized as a British subject in 1903. In an essay entitled "The Hilarity of Hilaire" in Shandygaff by Christopher Morley, the author says:—"In Belloc we find the perfect union of the French and English minds. Rabelaisian in fecundity, wit, and irrepressible sparkle, he is also of English blood and sinew, wedded to the sweet Sussex weald. History, politics, economics, military topography, poetry, novels, satires, nonsense rhymes—all these we may set aside as the hundred curiosities of an eager mind. [The dons, by the way, say that in his historical work he generalizes too hastily; but was ever history more crisply written?] It is in the essays, the thousand little inquiring does into the nature of anything, everything or nothing, that one comes closest to the real man. His prose leaps and sparks from the pen. It is whimsical, tender, biting, garrulous. It is familiar and unfettered as open-air talk.")

CHESTERTON, GILBERT KEITH. 1874—

Alarms and Discursions. Dodd; $1.50.

Tremendous Trifles. Dodd; $1.50.

Heretics. Lane; $1.50.

Orthodoxy. Lane; $1.50.

The Victorian Age in Literature. Holt; 60c.

Utopia of Usurers. Boni; $1.25.

(Chesterton was at first hailed as "the man who has come to take the place of Bernard Shaw," but as there is more manner than matter in the writings of "G. K. C.," Shaw has not been displaced. Chesterton is a master of paradox. His style is brilliantly clever and full of aphorisms, which are usually platitudes said backwards, or stood on their heads, as he himself expresses it, to attract attention.)

MIDDLETON, RICHARD. 1882-1911.

The Day Before Yesterday. Kennerley; $2.00.

("Whoever reads the volume will find that he has gained an insight into the imaginative life of children such as is hardly to be obtained elsewhere. Thus Middleton's essays have a place of their own, where they have scarcely a rival, except the books of Mr. Kenneth Grahame." Hugh Walker in the English Essay and Essayists.)

MEYNELL, ALICE. (Mrs. Wilfrid Meynell).

Essays. Scribner; $1.75.

Hearts of Controversy. Scribner; $1.75.

(Some critics give to Mrs. Meynell rather than to "Vernon Lee" the place of foremost woman essayist in England to-day. There is no doubt that Mrs. Meynell is more widely read and appreciated than Miss Paget.)

SIDGWICK, ARTHUR HUGH.

Walking Essays. Longmans; $1.60.

(The subject of Walking has been very popular with essayists from Thoreau down. These English "Walking Essays" are contemporaneous with the American "Walking-Stick Papers" by Holliday.)

COUTTS, FRANCIS BURDETT MONEY. 1832—

Ventures in Thought. Lane; $1.25.

("A series of 53 essays of Baconian brevity and varied subject matter. But in spite of the kaleidoscopic effect of a book which goes from Religion to Matter, Practical Philosophy, The Marriage Profession, Mermaids, Cats, Female Renaissance Fancies and Studies. Lane; $1.50.

Ariadne in Mantus. Mosher; $1.50.

The Child in the Vatican. Mosher; 75c.

In Praise of Old Gardens. Mosher; 40c.

(Vernon Lee, whose real name is Violet Paget, is the leading woman essayist in England. Her studies are all profound. They incline to the metaphysical and the mystical. May Sinclair's "Defence of Idealism" (Macmillan) is the only other work by a woman to compare in profundity with Vernon Lee's studies.

"There is less sawdust and more star-dust in the books of Vernon Lee than in any other contemporaries we have read, Walter Pater, John Addington Symonds, and Arthur Symonds alone excepted. . . . That there never has been any satisfactory appreciation of Vernon Lee published in England or America argues a singular indifference to the one woman of letters who may claim the distinction of a portrait by Sargent!"—Thomas Mosher.)

AMERICAN ESSAYISTS

EMERSON, RALPH WALDO. 1803-1882.

Essays. First and second series. Houghton; each $2.25, $1.35.

Nature, Addresses, Lectures. Houghton; $2.25, $1.35.

Representative Men. Houghton; $2.25, $1.35.

The Conduct of Life. Houghton; $2.25, $1.35.

Society and Solitude. Houghton; $2.25, $1.35.

(The American essay may be said to begin with Emerson's "Nature," published in 1836. Many of Emerson's essays were lectures turned into essays. In the process of transformation, the lectures were condensed and compressed, to such an extent that they sometimes seem to be made up of separate sentences without continuity. Indeed exaggerators like to claim that Emerson's pages have almost as much meaning read from end to beginning as from beginning to end. The first collection of the "Essays" was published in 1841; the second collection three years later.

W. C. Brownell in his volume on American Prose Masters has written of Emerson as follows: "His place is with Epictetus, Marcus Aurelius, Montaigne, Rabelais, Pascal, Sir Thomas Browne—with the wisdom writers of the world. . . . The 'Essays' are the scriptures of thought, the Virgilian Lots of modern literature. To open anywhere any of the volumes (including 'Representative Men,' which very strictly belongs with the 'Essays') is to be at once in the world of thought in a very particular sense. . . . Every statement stimulates thought because it is suggestive as well as expressive. Everything means something additional. To take it in you must go beyond it. . . . Every thought is pollent rather than purely reflective. . . . Dr. Holmes gives the number of citations they contain as 3393, taken from 868 writers.")

THOREAU, HENRY DAVID. 1817-1762.

Walden; or Life in the Woods. Houghton; $1.60,

$1.75. Crowell; $2.00, $1.25.

A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers.

Houghton; $1.60, $1.75. Crowell; $2.00, $1.25.

Spring, Summer, Autumn, Winter. (His journal.)

Houghton; $1.60 each.

(Thoreau would perhaps not be classed with essayists because he is always put with the Nature Writers. He was no doubt the creator and inspirer of our school of nature writers, but he stands apart from them. Thoreau was a nature lover, not a naturalist. He went to nature to feel, not to see. His essays are the records, not of facts, about nature, but of his ideas and emotions in the presence of nature. In "American Literature Since 1870" by Professor Pattee, (Century), an interesting contrast is drawn between Thoreau and John Burroughs. "Burroughs went into the woods to know and to make others to know, Thoreau went to think and to feel; Burroughs was a naturalist, Thoreau a supernaturalist. Thoreau is inclined to wonder and even laugh because of the many times he speaks of hearing the voice of unknown birds. To Burroughs the forest contained no unknown birds; to Thoreau the forest was valuable only because it did contain unknown birds.")

LOWELL, JAMES RUSSELL. 1819-1891.

My Study Windows. 2 v. Houghton; $2.25.

Among My Books. Houghton; $2.25.

Fireside Travels. Houghton; $1.60.

(Lowell's essays are nearly all literary essays, the majority of them belong under Criticism. Lowell was a writer who "made books out of books." W. C. Brownell in "American Prose Masters" writes of him, "his culture was an extraordinarily bookish one. . . . His criticism grew clearly out of his reading habit, not out of his reflective tendencies." One essay at least should entitle Lowell to a place with essayists who are not exclusively critics, and that is "On a Certain Condescension in Foreigners," a classic bit of irony.)

MABIE, HAMILTON WRIGHT. 1846-1916.

My Study Fire. Dodd; $1.25. (First and second series.)

(Mabie wrote some nine or ten volumes of essays but most of them were literary criticism. There is much talk about books in "My Study Fire" but it is more talk than writing. The habit of moralizing is here in lesser degree in this early work than in the author's later work.)

CROTHERS, SAMUEL MCCHORD. 1857—

The Gentle Reader. Houghton; $1.35.

The Pardoner's Wallet. Houghton; $1.35.

By the Christmas Fire. Houghton; $1.35.

Among Friends. Houghton; $1.35.

Humanely Speaking. Houghton; $1.35.

The Pleasures of an Absentee Landlord. Houghton;

$1.35.

(Dr. Crothers is pastor of the First Unitarian Church of Cambridge, Mass. Since the publication of his first collected essays in 1903 he has held the highest place among American essayists.)

TARBELL, IDA M. 1857—

The Ways of Woman. Macmillan; $1.25.

(This volume is an interesting companion to W. L. George's "Intelligence of Woman" (Little) and George Harvey's "Women, etc.")

REPPLIER, AGNES. 1850—

Essays. 11 vols. Houghton; $1.35 each.

(Miss Repplier is certainly the first of women essayists in America to-day. Her later works are invariably described as incisive. They are marked by an increasing aggressiveness and an unkindness toward things in general.)

BROWNELL, WILLIAM CRARY. 1851—

Standards. Scribner; $1.00.

Criticism. Scribner; 75c.

American Prose Masters. Scribner; $1.50.

Victorian Prose Masters. Scribner; $1.50.

French Art. Scribner; $3.75.

French Traits. Scribner; $1.50.

(Mr. Brownell is the greatest critic we have ever had in American letters. He ranks with Sainte-Beuve, Taine, and Matthew Arnold. "It is not too much to say of him that, while he is not the best writer among American critics, he is the foremost critic among American writers. As a practitioner of the art of criticism for its own sake, Mr. Brownell is the most important figure in our literature."—H. W. Mabie.)

HUNEKER, JAMES GIBBONS. 1860—

Promenades of an Impressionist. Scribner; $1.50.

The Pathos of Distance. Scribner; $2.00.

Ivory, Apes and Peacocks. Scribner; $1.50.

Unicorns. Scribner; $1.75.

(Huneker's 13 volumes of essays embrace the three arts of music, painting and literature. His literary and historical allusions are so far-reaching and so abundant that his essays must be read not only with Bartlett at hand but also Benham, Allibone, Brewer, and every other aid to enlightenment. He infers such a rich culture in the possession of his reader that he scorns the fingers of inverted commas in all but the most obscure references. In "A Book of Prefaces," H. L. Mencken writes: "Huneker assumes that the elements are already well-grounded, that he is dealing with the initiated, that a pause to explain would be an affront. Sad work for the Philistines—but a joy to the elect!"

CHAPMAN, JOHN JAY. 1862—

Memories and Milestones. Moffat; $1.25.

Greek Genius and Other Essays. Moffat; $1.75.

Emerson and Other Essays. Moffat; $1.25.

Learning and Other Essays. Moffat; $1.25.

(The author's curriculum would include only the classics. He "teaches a return to classical standards." His "Greek Genius" deals with such literary giants as Euripides, Shakespeare, and Balzac. His latest volume of Memories recalls to the student of American literature such outstanding figures as William James, Horace Howard Furness, Charles Eliot Norton and Julia Ward Howe.)

MORE, PAUL ELMER. 1864—

Aristocracy and Justice. Houghton; $1.50.

The Drift of Romanticism. Houghton; $1.50.

(These two titles form the eighth and the ninth volumes in a series of volumes which the author has called the "Shelbourne Essays" after the secluded village of Shelbourne in Maine where they were written. The earlier essays dealt with literary matters almost entirely; the recent volumes deal with questions of the day, sociological and political.)

BAKER, RAY STANNARD. 1870—

Adventures in Contentment. Doubleday; $1.50.

Grosset; 75c.

Adventures in Friendship. Doubleday; $1.50.

Grosset; 75c.

The Friendly Road. Doubleday; $1.50. Grosset;

75c.

Great Possessions. Doubleday; $1.50.

Hempfield. Doubleday; $1.50.

(The identification of "David Grayson" as Ray Stannard Baker a short time ago was a great surprise to a host of readers. His books have found admirers everywhere. "His friendly feeling toward all kinds of people is unquenchable. . . . No matter what the degree of actual acquaintance there are numberless people who have this sense of friendship for Ray Baker."—Bookman.)

BROOKS, CHARLES STEPHEN. 1878—

There's Pippins and Cheese to Come. Yale; $2.00.

Journeys to Bagdad. Yale; $2.00.

("The essays are compact of whimsical fancies, piquant ideas, errant trains of thought. The occasional use of mildly archaic diction adds to the illusion that his "journeys" are being taken in some region just outside the world which most of us live in too much."—Bookman.)

SHERWOOD, MARGARET. 1864—

Familiar Ways. Little; $1.25.

(Quiet essays, by the author of "The Worn Doorstep," including such titles as Housecleaning, A Sabbatical Year, Brother Fire. Margaret Sherwood is Professor of English Literature at Wellesley.)

HOLLIDAY, ROBERT CORTES.

Walking-Stick Papers. Doran; $1.50.

("A volume of delicious essays by one of the most accomplished of American walkers, Mr. Robert Cortes Holliday, the American Belloc."—Christopher Morley in "Shandygaff.")

BURGESS, GELETT. 1866—

The Romance of the Commonplace. Bobbs; $1.50.

(Fifty essays on any and every subject like Getting Acquainted, Dining Out, Living Alone, Women's Fashions, Black Coffee, and so on.)

ERSKINE, JOHN. 1879—

The Moral Obligation to be Intelligent. Duffield; $1.25.

(The initial essay which gives its name to the volume is the keynote of all the essays. Kingsley's "Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever" is "the casual assumption that a choice must be made between goodness and intelligence, that reason and God are not on good terms with each other, that the mind and the heart are rival buckets in the well of truth.")

MORLEY, CHRISTOPHER. 1890—

Shandygaff. Doubleday; $1.40.

("The book deals with brown eyes, tobacco, books, hay fever, the sorrows of commuters, and the President of the United States."—The author in an autoreview.)

SMITH, LOGAN PEARSALL. 1867—

Trivia. Doubleday; $1.25.

(Paragraph essays which invent a new prose form. Some of them were privately printed 16 years ago, and the author has worked since to develop the form.)

NEWTON, A. EDWARD.

Amenities of Book Collecting and Kindred Affections. Atlantic Monthly; $3.50.

("Of the thirteen essays, four deal with Mr. Newton's own adventures as a collector. Three turn about the Johnson coterie—and certainly the paper on Mrs. Thrale ("A Light-Blue Stocking") is one of Mr. Newton's happiest exercises. One deals with Lamb's love for Fanny Kelly; one with Lamb's grotesque friend Godwin, husband of the first suffragette; one is on Trollope, one on Wilde, one on Temple Bar. . . . Let no one carp that I have not explained what the book is about."—Christopher Morley in the Bookman.)

KIRKLAND, WINIFRED. 1872—

The Joys of Being a Woman. Houghton; $1.50.

The New Death. Houghton; $1.25.

(The essays of Miss Kirkland are familiar to all readers of the Atlantic Monthly. Her recent volume on the New Death is an enlargement of an essay that attracted widespread attention.)

BERGENGREN, RALPH.

The Comforts of Home. Atlantic Monthly; 75c.

(Humorous aspects of domestic life, including "Furnace and I" which was widely quoted from The Contributors' Club.)

American Reprints of German Books

A news item from the Federal Trade Commission states that the John Crerar Library of Chicago has asked for license to use the copyright issued by the Government in 1914 to Franz Siemenroth, of Berlin, covering "Die Organischen Geschmacksstoffe" by von Dr. Georg Cohn. This volume represents the highest authority on organic flavoring extracts.

That Chicago should have a special interest in the book is quite patent from the fact that there are 36 firms there manufacturing flavoring essences—four of these with a capital of over $1,000,000.

At the same time The Central Dyestuff and Chemical Co., of Newark, have applied for the license to use the patent covering "Red Azo Dyes and the Process of Making Same."

Probably the most indispensable volume on the dye industry is "Farbstofftabellen," by von Dr. Gustav Schultz, which has now been made available by G. E. Stechert & Co., who have reproduced the book by photographic process page for page.

When the war broke out the New York Public Library had three copies of this authoritative book on color mixing. Two of these were stolen from the shelves very shortly and the third copy suffered a mutilation by the lifting of 40 pages. Luckily these could be replaced from photostat copies.

MAKING GOOD IN THE NEW ERA

A Page of Ideas and Suggestions For the Retail Bookseller

Selling Wilson's Writings

The London Bookman in a brilliant critical article calls attention to President Wilson's place as a man of letters which, so far, seems to have been of more interest to our Allies than to ourselves. The article mentions particularly his "Mere Literature" (Houghton Mifflin), which it styles "the volume in which Mr. Wilson goes furthest in self-revelation."

This is the time when our author-president's books should be very easy to sell. Some of those most interesting to the public at large are:

HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. Harper. $30.
LIFE OF GEORGE WASHINGTON. Harper. $1.50 and $2.

NEW FREEDOM. Doubleday. $1.

By using the American Library Association poster design of the soldier carrying a huge stack of books, and printing it against a dark blue background, the Presbyterian Book Stores have obtained a most striking cover for their new book catalog, and at the same time helped along the cause of books for soldiers.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY had occasion recently to point out the interest which the bookstore ought to take in the increased reading of periodicals that appeal to a book-loving public. This is again brought to mind by the coming to hand of the December Bookman, which is a high water mark in American literary periodicals. The bookseller would do well to see that a copy of this magazine is passed along monthly to all of the clerks. It would increase their preparation for good bookselling.

Help From Webster

Nothing can, perhaps, better express the proper attitude for business men to assume today than the definitions from Webster of the word "alert."

Alert—Keenly watchful; on the lookout; ready to act on short notice.

Keenly watchful. So many changes in means and method are taking place—so many more will take place that the business man must scrutinize conditions day by day or run the risk of being left behind in the procession. Read the newspapers; read your trade journals; attend your conventions; absorb all the knowledge obtainable bearing upon your own particular business.

On the lookout. You cannot afford to be caught unprepared by any contingency which may arise. Keep in as close touch as possible with the prospects and activities of your customers. Many plans have been side-tracked by the war. With the coming of peace these plans will be revived. There is bound to be a tremendous drive for new business in the year 1919.

Be on the lookout constantly for the first evidence of renewed activity and then get your share of the business.

Ready to act on short notice. See that your place is in first-class operating condition. Keep a good stock, especially, of the more commonly called for items; be prepared to give prompt and thoro service. Big opportunities are coming for those with the vision to see, and the readiness to act.

Be alert!—From De Longe Monthly.

The War Department Issues New Map Series

Thru the American Geographical Society, the Committee on Education and Special Training of the War Department is preparing to distribute at the cost of manufacture a series of about sixty maps on the "problem areas" of the world. These are intended for use in the Students' Army Training Corps in connection with the War Issues Course, but may be secured by any institution of learning, newspaper, periodical or agency for the diffusion of knowledge by ordering from the society. The price for the series, many of which are of wall size, is $12.00.

During the past year the Society has had these maps in preparation and the building of the Society has been the headquarters for a special study of world conditions, especially European conditions that bear upon the problems of the coming peace conference. Probably never before in the history of the United States has there been gathered together so large an organization of scholars for a national purpose, and a large force of draftsmen and cartographers has been at the task.

All correspondence with regard to the maps should be addressed to the American Geographical Society, Broadway and 156th St., New York.

AMONG THE PUBLISHERS

A NEW MYSTERY story comes from Knopf, "The Solitary House" by E. T. Punshon.

THE REVISED EDITION of the "Almanach de Gotha", is expected to be a smaller and much less elaborate volume.

DR. DAVID STARR JORDAN's new book is called "Democracy and World Relations," and is issued by World Book Co.

A COLLECTION of Swinburne's poems of childhood collected under the name, "The Springtide of Life," has just been issued by Lippincott. The book is beautifully illustrated by Arthur Rackham.

BOTH IMPORTANT and timely is the publication on Dec. 7th of André Chéradame's "The Essentials of An Enduring Victory." It is a book warning against the dangers that beset the paths of those who wish to ensure enduring peace.

IN ENDEAVORING to meet the problems of December shipping Penn Pub. Co. has placed reserve stocks with Dick & Fitzgerald in New York and with Albert H. Hall in Boston, which can be drawn on by customers in those cities or nearby points.

ONE OF Belgium's famous books is now made available in English translation by the publishing thru McBride of Charles de Coster's "Legend of Tyl Ulenspiegel." It has been called the Robin Hood of Flanders. The American edition is limited to 1500 copies.

THE BOOKSHOP for boys and Girls of Boston has come into the publishing field, by taking over for their imprint, "Guld, The Cavern King," by Mary L. B. Branch, which was formerly issued by Sherman French & Co. Of the book, Miss Jordan of the Boston Public Library said "We cannot doubt that the poetic gift of Anna Hempstead Branch was richly nourished by a mother who could call up the magic of the Cavern world with real kobolds like these. It is like 'The Princess and the Goblin.'"

RICHARDSON WRIGHT, writing in the New York Times Book Review of Siegfried Sassoon, Robert Nichols and Robert Graves, calls them "the Three Musketeers of English verse" because of the friendship which exists between them. They are all young men, Sassoon, who is twenty-nine, being the oldest of the "interesting trio," all of whom have fought and been wounded in the war. "They represent," he says, "the new age in English verse; that is, they express in poetry the attitude of the young men in the war." Their poems have been made available in this country by Dutton, Stokes and Knopf respectively.

THE American Library Association has purchased 500 copies of "Foch, the Man," from Revell & Co. for their Camp Libraries here and abroad.

"WITH THE HELP OF GOD AND A FEW MARINES" by Brigadier General A. W. Catlin which will be published by Doubleday, Page & Company about the first of the year, is the story of the American Marines up to and including Belleau Wood and Chateau Thierry.

ON THE heels of the tidings from "Over There", comes the news by cable that Mildred Aldrich is already at work on the manuscript of a new book which she has christened "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." Small, Maynard & Co. will publish it in the early Spring. "The Peak of the Load" is already in its second printing.

"THE TWELFTH CENTURY THEATER" by William Lyon Phelps (Macmillan) discusses comedies, the "movies," girl-and-music shows, the necessary education of audiences, the drama league, stock companies, municipal theaters, the status of dramatic criticism, and other matters of vital import to the theatergoer.

"MEMORIES GRAVE AND GAY," which the Harpers have ready for immediate publication, is the account by Florence Howe Hall, daughter of Julia Ward Howe, of the varied and active life which has been hers since childhood. During her youth she met in her home many celebrities of both Europe and America, of whom the book contains her impressions—among them Longfellow, Emerson, Thackeray, and Edwin Booth. Other chapters deal with her own friendships and literary career.

ERNEST POOLE's novels are beginning to have almost a world-wide circulation. "The Harbor" has been translated and published in Sweden, Denmark, and Holland, and translations are soon to appear in Switzerland and France. "His Family," "His Second Wife," and "The Dark People" are all to be published soon in England, Canada, and Australia, and the rights to a translation of "His Family" have been assigned in Norway.

THE MANUFACTURING department of the Atlantic Monthly Press has shown exceptional taste and versatility in its fall publication. "Jane, Joseph and John" was one of the most attractive of picture books. "The Amenities of Book-Collecting and Kindred Affections" was an excellently planned volume for both type and illustrations, and now comes to hand Laura Spencer Portor's "Adventures in Indigence" with its strikingly attractive cover design.

HOW TO INCREASE CHRISTMAS SALES

From the speakers at the November 21st meeting of the Women's National Book Association at the Sunwise Turn Bookshop, New York.

MRS. MOWBRAY-CLARKE of the Sunwise Turn Bookshop:

No other Christmas in the experience of the book-trade was ever just like this. We face the most solemn responsibility of our lives as booksellers. To us many thousands look for advice and suggestion as to the books to be read on democracy, on reconstruction, on education after the war, etc. To a large extent the public is unconscious of its needs, unconscious of the relationship of many special books to its needs. The public needs fewer of the accounts of personal experiences in the war and more of the results of profound thought put upon the problems that, whether we are conscious or unconscious of their existence, affect every one of us. Booksellers can sound a note of responsible citizenship more easily now than ever before. They can devise ways of showing the books of genuine value with an arresting word on their relation to the future of the Republic and while increasing sales in neglected fields they can also have the comfortable sense of doing real service to both the trade and the world it works in.

MISS MADGE JENISON of the Sunwise Turn Bookshop:

Our theory is that Christmas sales can be increased, just as sales can always be increased, by salesmanship. If a pile of three hundred books will go down without selling, if books will sell themselves, it will go down twice as fast if they are sold. Book selling now all seems to revolve about buying; The buyer is always the highly paid person, but the power to sell is really the great fundamental necessity of any business enterprise.

We send out every year the first of December an announcement of the achievements of the past year and a word of recapitulation of our peculiar claim, what we are trying to do. It seems the time of year to remind everybody of us again and give a little filip to their memory. We have brought many people into the shop by wrapping books up in the patterns of Japanese paper. Mary Elizabeth's candy is no better than other people's candy, but one buys there because she puts it up in a really charming package. A good many people have come here for books which, other things being equal, they would have bought at Brentano's or Scribner's, because they wanted them wrapped by us. The shop becomes very human at Christmas too, more so than at any other time of year. People deliver packages for us; we have candles in the window, a little tree, and the festivity is more intimate than in a greater, more abstract shop.

MRS. PAULINE SHERWOOD of Sherwood Co.:

One idea that we have carried out for a number of years and found most successful is to print "Sherwood's Christmas Suggestions." We start with suggestions for the father, the mother, and take it straight thru the family, the sweetheart included. We give a list of popular gift books at popular prices.

When people come in and want something in a hurry for father, we have many things that we could suggest, but in the rush of Christmas we cannot think of all of them, and the list is a wonderful help, especially to the new salespeople. We have recently attracted to our store a new customer, a bookseller who was formerly an advertising man. He seems to think that booksellers do not co-operate with the publisher by backing his advertisements. So he takes book advertisements out of the Sun, the Times or other papers, mounts them on a card, adds an interesting footnote and puts them in his window. Sometimes he has on the same card reviews and ads from two or three different newspapers. He is sure the customer will think the book he notices in this way worth while, after he has read the various reviews. By this kind of effort he has sold several books lately that he thinks would have been entirely overlooked in the store, besides increasing the general sales wonderfully.

MISS DEMPSEY of Gimbel's Department Store:

The house is ready for Christmas business; all dressed up from the basement to the tenth floor. There are inspections by the members of the firm and criticisms or compliments about the displays. Everybody becomes interested, the department displays become competitive. I think it helps the Christmas book business. I find the bigger the stock is the quicker it goes down, but as for shelf books, etc., they meet with sorrow and disappointment, for in big stores we do not get the high prices, we sell "just books."

MISS BELLE C. MORRIS of H. C. F. Koch & Co.:

The central idea this year of the Christmas selling was based in my mind on the human element that entered into it. You have a number of customers who really know books. You gain their sympathy and co-operation by a human appeal to them: "Won't you help me with the customer who does not know as you do?" Help me to help the next one—that is the human appeal which, owing to the close sympathy and kinship of interests that exist today between all the people, the universal sense of brotherhood in man—"your brother at the front and my boy over there too"—attunes us to the finest and closest touch of relationship, the hearts that beat—one unto another in unison—the underlying human fellowship in all. This idea, coupled with an unwavering sense of cheerfulness and looking wise, the ability, as Mark Twain puts it, "to look like an inspired idiot" for a long period at a time—that is the winning touch with it all.

LIBERTY DOCUMENTS is the well chosen title of a new volume from Longmans. The volume, which has been edited by Mabel Hill with introduction by Albert Bushnell Hart contains twenty-four documents which are the monuments of Anglo-Saxon liberty.

BOOKSELLERS WHO MUST BE TAUGHT

[Reprinted from the Christian Science Monitor of Nov. 20, 1918]

The recent announcement of the secretary of the American Booksellers Association that "bookselling has got to be taught" is a definite step in advance. For many years the business of the bookseller has been bad, but he has been entitled to less sympathy because his predicament was due largely to inadequate business methods and unintelligent handling of his product.

In teaching bookselling it would be an excellent thing for the American Booksellers Association to take a leaf out of the history of the booksellers of the Fifteenth Century, for in those days the bookseller not only knew his wares intimately, but made himself responsible for their quality. Take Vespasiana da Bisticci, for example, the famous bookseller of Florence during the height of the Medicis. He dealt in manuscripts instead of books. His agents were not only in Italy, but in Switzerland, Germany, Transylvania, Hungary, and the East, purchasing authenticated codices and illuminated manuscripts wherever found. He gave employment to a large number of skillful copyists, who produced copies of famous volumes, which, in turn, he sold thruout Europe. Bisticci was an able scholar, and he, personally, supervised the training of his copyists and the selection of his texts, with a result that a manuscript from him was accepted as absolutely authentic.

Summed up in a single sentence, Bisticci "knew his business." The modern bookseller, however, has considered he has performed his function when he has offered books for sale. There has been no lack of suggestion from the bookseller's clerk to the prospective customer regarding the merits of certain volumes, but a distinct absence of intelligent suggestion. Just what form the course of education prescribed for the booksellers may take is a matter in which all book lovers will take considerable interest, hoping that it may be made comprehensive and really educational. It is hardly to be expected that the thoroughness of this course will be as complete as that prescribed by the Venetian Guild, which in 1667 required booksellers to pass the following examination paper before they could be matriculated:

1. Name the principal Bibles.
2. Name the principal Saints and Fathers, both Greek and Latin.
3. Name the principal expositors of Holy Writ.
4. Name the principal theologians, controversialists and polemical writers.
5. Name the principal writers in ecclesiastical history.
6. Name the ancient writers on philosophy and history; also the principal poets, tragic as well as comic, in Greek and Latin literature.
7. Name the principal writers on the law of nature, the law of nations, on civil and canon law, on philosophy, metaphysics and ethics.

8. Name the principal geographers, Greek, Latin, Italian, and French.

9. Name the principal historians, ancient and modern, letter-writers, antiquarians, numismatists, mathematicians, physicians, surgeons, anatomists, and jurists.

10. Name the principal writers on the fine arts, painting, sculpture, architecture, civil and military.

11. Name the principal writers on natural history and botany.

The effect of the war is being felt in books, on booksellers, and on bookstores, just as on everything else. The curtailment of the publishers' output should assist the American Booksellers Association in their worthy effort to teach bookselling. With a smaller product to handle the bookseller and his clerks can come nearer to knowing the nature and, to a certain extent, the merit of the volumes they offer for sale. When they reach this point, and the prospective purchaser can enter a bookstore confident that he can be intelligently advised, the number of purchases will be increased, and bookselling will become a real business.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

England is taking prompt action to ensure a wider study in her schools of all modern languages.

A recent report from our Department of Commerce shows that we are beginning to appreciate the importance of foreign languages to the future of our trade. This report quotes with special approval that section of the recommendations of the British committee which is addressed to "the business community" as follows:

"That the business community in every considerable center of foreign trade or of manufacture for foreign markets should take steps, in conjunction with the education authorities, to further the formation of institutes of languages, both for full-time and for part-time study.

"That business men should, individually and collectively, encourage the study of foreign languages by those members of their staff who, possessing good business ability, have shown capacity for such study, by arranging for their full-time attendance at an institute of languages either at home or abroad.

"That industrial and commercial organizations dealing with foreign countries should make a fuller and more adequate use of the supply of women of trained intelligence now proceeding from our universities and the upper forms of secondary schools with an adequate knowledge of foreign languages.

"That commercial houses and industrial firms should bring to the knowledge of the school authorities the opportunities which present themselves from time to time for those who have special aptitude for foreign languages."

AUTHORS AND BOOKSTORES

The year book of the Author's League of America, Inc., which has just been printed calls attention to the prosperous condition of this progressive organization, to its competent committees, and active permanent headquarters. Thru its secretary and special committees the league is able to help American authors by investigating contract relations, dealings with literary agents, questions of profits from dramatic rights, moving picture rights, etc. The printed report quite plainly indicates that the progress during a single year has been considerable.

As this organization has so much at heart everything that affects the conditions under which the author's product reaches the public, the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is tempted to call attention to the fact that even with a sound contract and a good publisher, no author can reach the widest public because of the handicaps that exist in this country and in other countries to the successful distribution of books.

No matter how many books are placed in public libraries or how many sold by mail, there has been no successful substitute found for the bookstore as a point of distribution. When these book counters are lacking in many of the important points of distribution, the author, as well as the publisher and the public suffers. It could hardly be expected that the authors take any active interest in the success of bookstores, but there is no reason why they should not take a more human interest than that of occasionally estimating the size of the pile of their own new volumes.

The bookstore in a community is the most interesting of shops, a place where authors can find more of suggestion and of interest than at any other point of visit. Their interest in these shops and in the people who run them would lead the community to accept a similar point of view, and under the influence of the author's interest they would be more inclined to take the bookstore less seriously as a community institution.

Such an interest in the bookstore would be deeply appreciated by the bookseller, and an effort in this direction would be well worth the organized support of the monthly organ of the Authors' League of America.

THE LARGEST PUBLISHER

Uncle Sam's publishing house, officially known as the Government Printing Office, is the greatest establishment of its kind in the world, private or public.

It has a floor space of thirteen acres.

There is more type set in a year in that establishment than is required for the entire output of Scribner's, Harper's, Doran's, Putnam's, Appleton's and Macmillan's, or any other half-dozen book publishing houses combined.

Fifty million pounds of paper are used in one year. The government prints and binds each year more books than are contained in the Library of Congress, the largest library in the United States.

The white paper used in furnishing campaign material during a presidential contest would extend around the world.

In 1917 over 2,000,000 publications were condemned to be sold as waste paper, which amounted to 9,500,000 pounds.—From the December Bookman.

MORE RESEARCH WORK NEEDED

Charles M. Schwab, in his article on "The Readjustment of Industries," with especial reference to the steel industry, in "American Problems of Reconstruction" (E. P. Dutton & Co.) surveys the conditions which confront the steel industry at the present time in a very hopeful spirit. There will need to be, he thinks, but little change in the plants themselves to bring them back to a peace production basis. Technical research should be very much encouraged and aided and he looks to such research to solve certain difficult problems, as follows:

"To compete abroad," he says, "we must have lower costs. These lower costs must be attained by means of higher wages. To insure the continuation of high wages we must turn to scientific management and co-operation with labor to increase output. Our lower costs must further be attained in spite of higher transportation costs. We cannot rely on preferential railroad rates for steel produced for export purposes. We must look to chemical and engineering research to effect economies which will compensate for the separation of our ore and coal. We shall need to rely on our scientists and their research institutions more than ever before."

GOOD-BYE TO POSTAL ZONES

Only those who have been closely connected with the publishing office of a periodical can realize with what a sigh of relief the word of the proposed abolition of postal zones was received.

The Senate Finance Committee has amended the War Revenue bill so that the future rates on periodicals shall be 1 cent per pound within a 200-mile radius and 1½ beyond that limit. This change would go into effect on the passing of the bill.

It is proposed to return to 2c letter postage by July 1st.

25 YEARS AGO IN THE P. W.

Charles Chalmers Shoemaker, of the Penn Pub. Co., and Louise Fry Super were married on November 7th.

Porter & Coates announce Christmas Juveniles by Harry Castleman and Horatio Alger, Jr.

The new Pansy book (Lee & Shepard) is "Stephen Mitchell's Journey."

Lovell, Coryell & Co. announce Henry Harland's "Mademoiselle Miss."

Funk & Wagnalls Co. have ready their new "Standard Dictionary of the English language." It is claimed that half a million dollars have been spent in preparation.

The Baroness Tautphoeus, author of "Quits" and "Initials," died at Munich.

THE JACOBS & CO. CELEBRATES

Good things can't come too fast or too often, and when the firm of George W. Jacobs & Company got together at the Philadelphia City Club, on the evening of November 18th, to felicitate Mr. James Flood, Jr., on his twenty-five years association with the concern, the news that young Howard Jacobs had arrived safely in America after several months in the trenches added joy to the party.

Corporal Jacobs was wounded in the left arm on September 29th, in the battle of the Meuse, and is now in an army hospital. He must be feeling pretty good now though, for the first thing he did on his arrival after O. K., was to telegraph his dad for ten beans. The natural way in which the telegram was worded leads Mr. Jacobs to hope that Howard is on the way to become a book salesman.

But to get back to Jimmy the Flood and his anniversary. With Mr. Jacobs in the chair, Mr. D. L. Macrae, a well known literary dilettante, presented the guest of honor with a scarf pin as an evidence of the appreciation of his fellow-workers. After a short dissertation on "Various Floods I have met," Mac brought his hearers to the verge of tears by reciting with intense feeling the poem "The Night Before Pay Day," by Christopher Morley.

The evening was then given up to music and song. Mr. Jacobs contributed a solo and as the sonorous notes rang out (causing a temporary panic in the adjoining room), the assembly waited breathlessly lest he might know more than one verse.

Fortunately, however, the fear was groundless and the meeting was soothed back into tranquility by the plaintive murmurs of a ukulele quartette.

VICENTE BLASCO IBANEZ

THE PORTRAIT by the famous Spanish artist, Sorolla, of Vicente Blasco Ibanez, which hangs in the galleries of the Hispanic Society in New York City, leads many a New York reader of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," to the society's building at 56th Street and Broadway, for the purpose of studying the features and appearance of the author, whose book has interested and impressed them as no other novel of the war has done. The intellectual quality of his countenance explains the radicalism of the man, which more than once has got him into trouble with the Spanish authorities. It is a radicalism that would be perfectly at home and in sympathy with the democratic status in such countries as the United States, England or France, but in Spain it is anathema to the ruling powers.

"WAR POEMS FROM THE YALE REVIEW" (Yale University Press) presents a model format for a volume of poetry, in binding and typography. A page $5\frac{1}{4}$ inches broad permits the longer lines of poetry to be printed without turning.

THREE DISTINGUISHED WAR RECORDS

On Thursday a cablegram from Lieut. Horace W. Stokes gave news of his safe arrival in the Allied lines from the prison camp in Germany. This news brought great relief to family and friends, and the F. A. Stokes Co. office appropriately celebrated by closing the office for the day. Lieut. Stokes had been once wounded before his capture but is in good health now.

His brother, Lieut. Frederick B. Stokes, who was invalided home with two wounds in August, is recovering favorably at a military camp in New Jersey and will soon return to his former post in his father's business.

The booktrade takes special interest and pride in the records of these brother lieutenants, nor is it likely to soon forget that the war service of their father, Mr. Frederick A. Stokes, has carried equal distinction.

The report on another page of the publishers' committee on the United War Work Campaign testifies anew to Mr. Stokes' untiring energy and self-sacrifice in the war work. He has carried the burden of the booktrade campaign for War Savings Stamps and served on other committees.

AMONG THE hundred and ten incorporators of the League of Free Nations Association who have come forward with a concrete statement of principles in favor of the League of Nations are two familiar names in the publishing trade, George P. Brett of Macmillan's and George A. Plimpton of Ginn & Co. That the influential journals are to be strongly back of the League idea is indicated by the presence on the list of the editors of the Atlantic, Independent, Dial, and New Republic.

CANADA'S GREAT RESPONSE

To the Editor, THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY,

I am enclosing a press report of the meeting at which was announced the result of the third Canadian Victory Loan.

The objectives originally set were $300,000,000 for the Dominion and, among other provinces and cities, $250,000,000 for Ontario, and $50,000,000 for Toronto. That these figures were very largely exceeded is shown by the returns which gave $676,000,000 for the Dominion, $329,680,000 for Ontario, and $145,000,000 for Toronto—which overtopped Montreal. Counting the last loan, within a twelve month seven million odd Canadians have bought over a billion of bonds. The result of the last loan means that every man, woman, and child in Canada stands as having contributed $85 each, or, in Ontario, over $130 each.

Knowing the interest, from the standpoint of both sympathy and trade, which has always been shown in Canada by the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY and American publishers, I thought you might care to make these figures public in your paper.

FRANK WISE,
President of the Macmillans in Canada.

PERSONAL NOTES

FREDERICK PALMER, author of "America in France," who has been a Major on the staff of General Pershing from May 1917 to October 1918, has just been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. He writes on November 11th from the front that the guns had just ceased firing and that the change to him was a cause of inexpressible happiness because he had heard the voices of those guns for more than four years. Probably no officer in the American Army has been in France as constantly and as long as Major Palmer since the war began.

PRIVATE CHARLES DIVINE, whose book of war poems, "City Ways and Company Streets" (Moffat, Yard & Co.) has been one of the most popular books of war poems written by an American soldier, is now a Lieutenant. A succession of transfers from one camp to another over there is responsible for his seeing the first bound copy of his first book on the day that he was awarded his commission of Lieutenantcy.

TOWNLEY SEARLE, has resigned from Charles Scribner's Sons to join the staff of Henry Malkan, where he has charge of the Rare Book department. Well known in English literary circles, Mr. Searle was for some time Editor of the Academy & Literature and other European literary ventures.

THE MARRIAGE of Frank N. Doubleday to Miss Florence Van Wyck of New York took place on November 27th at Grace Church. Mr.

and Mrs. Doubleday are sailing for England and France, and will be away until the end of January. On their return they will reside at 268 Stewart Avenue, Garden City, L. I.

OBITUARY NOTES

EDMOND ROSTAND, the French poet and dramatist, died Dec. 2, at the age of fifty. M. Rostand leaped suddenly into fame in 1898 with the production of the play "Cyrano de Bergerac." His second great success, from both an artistic and financial standpoint was "Chantecler," 1910. He was also the author of the following plays: "Les Romanesques," 1894; "La Princesse Lointaine," 1896; "La Samaritaine," 1897; "L'Aiglon," 1900. His poems include "Les Musardises," 1890; "Pour la Grèce"; "Un Soir à Hernani"; "Les Mots," 1910; "Le Cantique de l'Aile," 1911; and "Le Printemps de l'Aile," 1912.

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday night.

Under the headings of "BOOKS WANTED" and "BOOKS FOR SALE" book-trade subscribers are given under their own names five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertising for specified books, not more than one title to the line, in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding one hundred lines a year, a maximum of fifty lines under "Books Wanted" and fifty lines under "Books for Sale," and if over five lines are sent for either department in only one issue, or fifty lines for each department within the calendar year, the excess is at ten cents a line. Bills for this service will be rendered monthly. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "HELP WANTED" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 15 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

An Open Letter to The American Publishers

You are all familiar with the very heavy increase in cost during the past year in travelling expenses.

In trying to reduce this item we would like to make an arrangement with one or two firms to control the sale of their Publications for 1919 and if that is not possible perhaps some arrangement could be made to take over the California and Southern Territory.

PUBLICATIONS OF R. R. BOWKER CO.

Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative journal of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly cumulations; all the news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted" and "Books for Sale" (an advertising feature which booktrade subscribers may use without charge to the extent of 50 lines per year under each heading), etc., etc. Subscriptions, $5.00 a year; to foreign countries, $6.00 a year.

The Book Review

Reprinted from THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY supplements and special numbers and issued in editions of not less than one hundred copies with the dealer's imprint, and constituting a retail bookselling publication to draw trade. Issued for each month of the year excepting July and August. Send for specimen copies and terms.

The American Educational List

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 400 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists, fully indexed, in the front of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of current books. Large 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

State Publications

A provisional list of the official publications of the several States of the United States from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Part 1: New England States. Part 2: North Central States. Part 3: Western States and Territories. Part 4: Southern States. The four parts bound in one vol., half morocco, $12.00; the four parts, in paper covers, $10.00 for the set. (Not sold separately.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules nearly 1000 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 8vo, paper, $2.50.

241 W. 37th ST. R. R. BOWKER CO. NEW YORK

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in NOVEMBER, 1918

This Reference List includes and classifies all books entered in the annotated Weekly Record during the past month, together with additional titles not therein listed, covering law and medicine, many government documents, university publications, pamphlets, and books of limited character. All works are here entered under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in CAPS and SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics. Under subject entries asterisks () designate books previously entered in the Weekly Record, in most cases with descriptive annotation.*

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in caps, Q, O, D, etc.; for books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire published output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i. e., GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

TWO WONDERFUL WAR BOOKS

FOR ALL BOYS

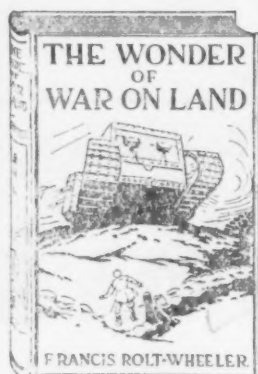

FROM EIGHT TO EIGHTY

THE WONDER OF WAR ON LAND

By FRANCIS ROLT-WHEELER

Author of "The Wonder of War in the Air," "The U. S. Service Series," etc. With many illustrations from unusual war photographs and sketches.

Large 12mo. $1.35.

This book is American through and through. It tells in story form the adventures of a young American who was caught in the backward sweep of the Retreat to the Marne, and served in the ragged legion which saved Paris. The strategy and counter-strategy of this retreat are so clearly told that the reader can see the armies in action before his eyes. No clearer account of modern gunnery has ever been written.

THE WONDER OF WAR IN THE AIR

By FRANCIS ROLT-WHEELER

With forty-two illustrations from unusual war photographs and sketches.

Large 12mo. $1.35.

A story combining the fascination in the perilous excitement of flying and the thrill of modern war. One sees the bombardment machine, the aeroplane for directing artillery fire, the scout, and the fighter of the air, at work in their several fields. The hero of the book, trained in the French Flying Corps, is taught every detail necessary in that new world of warfare—the battleground of the skies. He witnesses some of the most historic raids of the war, and takes a share in the destruction of one of the newest aerial monsters. Taken a prisoner by the enemy, the young aviator's escape (based on an actual incident from the front) is daring in the extreme. As the Literary Digest says: "It is packed with information that comes step by step, and with the spice that allures to mastery of details given."
